

PEACE OF EUROPE THREATENED THIRTY BELIEVED DEAD SOUTH TEXAS

COASTAL REGION WAS DEVASTATED BY WIND AND WATER

HEAVY CROP AND PROPER- TY LOSS AND MANY PEOPLE REPORTED MISSING

HOUSTON, July 26.—(AP)—From the hurricane-devastated South Texas coastal region today came tragic reports which indicated fatalities might exceed thirty and that crop and property damage would amount to many millions.

There were at least 17 persons missing from the low-lying, swampy area, where a giant tidal wave swept inland for a distance of six miles, laying waste a rich farming section.

As the storm raged in from the Gulf, the wind howled at a velocity of 80 miles an hour and in at least one community, displayed the twisting characteristics of a tornado. At Morelos, in Jackson county, the wind wrecked practically every building and killed five persons. Another person was dying from injuries today.

The dead at Morelos were Neal Lewis, 45, of Wink, Texas, his two adopted sons, Harvey Lewis, 13, and Roland Lewis, 12; Mrs. Sue A. George, 72, the mother of Mrs. Lewis; and a laborer, Handy Cook, a negro farm laborer.

Mrs. Neal Lewis, 42, was reported in a diving condition today at Edna, where she was taken for treatment.

The negro lost his life while working in a field, while the others died in the wreckage of Mrs. George's home.

Mrs. George was the widow of a wealthy landowner.

Practically every house in the Morelos community was damaged many of them being leveled.

A survey of hurricane damage in the Victoria section revealed that crops had been hard hit and structural losses might run as high as $12,000 in Victoria alone. Many houses were uninhabitable.

Along the coast were strewn innumerable small craft, battered into wreckage along the beach, roofless buildings, tangled communication lines, washed out bridges, ruined crops and muddy roads marked the desolate scene inland.

Most of the missing whose names had not been learned were negro or Mexican fishermen.

All crops in the agricultural section near Sargent inundated by the great tidal wave, were destroyed.

The damage to the rice crop near Bay City, however, was as great as had been feared at first. Livestock and chickens

This was the order federal operatives were under today and they concentrated all their powers in this new man-hunt now that John Dillinger's body lies buried in the Crown Hill cemetery at Indianapolis, mute evidence that the government "always gets its man."

Nelson, also known as Lester M. Gillis, is the product of Chicago's West Side. Although he was one of the latest recruits to the Dillinger gang, he soon became known as the chief gunman of the crew. He is accused by the government of being the man who shot down federal agent, W. FIVE KILLED WHEN FARMING COMMUNITY HIT BY TORNADO

THREE OF DEAD WERE VIS- ITORS AT MORELOS, JACK- SON COUNTY, FROM WINK

VICTORIA, July 26.—(AP)—Five persons were killed and another injured probably fatally in a tornado which wrecked the farming community of Morelos, Jackson county, late yesterday.

The tornado apparently was a phase of the violent hurricane which, sweeping inland from the Gulf, devastated a wide stretch of coast line and ruined crops for miles in the interior.

TEXAS ELECTION
BUREAU RETURNS
NOT BE BROADCAST

MOVE MADE BY ORGANIZA-TION TO PROTECT THE RIGHTS OF NEWSPAPERS

DALLAS, July 26.—(AP)—The Texas Election Bureau, operated by the Texas Managing Editors' Association for more than 20 years as a co-operative agency for gathering election returns for newspaper use, announced today that hereafter returns supplied by it may not be broadcast or placed on bulletin boards. The bureau was incorporated July 10.

The announcement says:

"In the past few years election news gathered by the bureau has been used so largely by persons who contributed nothing to the expense as to destroy its value to the papers which do contribute."

"This election news has been obtained from bulletin boards and from broadcasts. Attorneys advise that when news is broadcast it becomes public property. Hence, to protect its rights in this news, the bureau has prohibited the use of its returns on bulletin boards, and incorporated so that it may secure in court its property right in whatever news it supplies to its members."

"The ban on broadcasts and bulletin boards is merely a move to preserve the only agency we have for gathering returns at all on election night."

GERMANY MAINTAINS OFFICIAL NEUTRAL
COURSE IN AUSTRIA

MEDDLING MINISTER IS RE-
CALLED AND BORDER CLOS-ED TO POLITICAL FUGITIVES

BERLIN, July 26.—(AP)—Germany officially maintained a strict neutral course today, struggling to clear of any implication in the Austrian Nazi uprising.

The German minister to Austria, Herr Rieth, was recalled for his unauthorized intervention in Vienna and the Austro-German frontier was closed.

The recall of Rieth was regarded as a highly indicative of how anxious Germany is, in view of her difficult foreign position, to assure the world that the third reich is not involved in the Austrian situation.

In the same light was regarded the official announcement that the border has been closed to all political fugitives from Austria.

The Reich recall, however, was further interpreted as a move to provide Chancellor Hitler with first hand accounts of the Austrian situation.

There has been no indication as to whether Rieth is being blamed for his intervention, or for marking Germany as being connected with the uprising.

A brief government communiqué was issued today, emphasizing only that the minister acted "without the content of the government" in conducting the negotiations which ended the siege of the chancellery.

The Berlin press did not comment on the recall, but displayed the fact prominently on front pages, packed with Austrian news.

MUSSOLINI INSISTS ITALY WILL DEFEND AUSTRIAN FREEDOM

TROOPS ALONG BORDER OR-DERED PREPARE FOR QUICK ADVANCE

By ANDRUE BERDING
Associated Press Foreign Staff
ROME, July 26.—(AP)—

A high official of the foreign office told the Associated Press a movement today of Italian troops toward the Austrian frontier constitutes an affirmation, directed at Germany, that Italy will not tolerate foreign interference in Austria's domestic affairs.

The troop movement included a transfer to frontier positions of four army divisions, numbering in all 48,000 men.

The spokesman said the government did not believe, however, that the troops would need to cross the border, as the Austrian situation had become more calm.

He added significantly that if the situation became worse, particularly through further foreign interference, Italy would feel called upon to send her army into Austria.

ROME, July 26.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini assured Vice Chancellor Starhemberg of Austria by telegram today that Italy will defend Austria's independence even "more strenuously in these exceptional and difficult times."

Mussolini's message was sent as war-time sentiments came to the fore in Italy, long opposed to a union of Germany and Austria. Troops in the north were ordered ready to march on short notice.

"The tacit end of Chancellor Dollfuss saddened me profoundly," Mussolini telegraphed Starhemberg.

VICTIM REPORTS INCIDENT TO LOCAL POLICE AND RETURNS TO HOME

E. M. Brewton, 4338 Frio street, Dallas, reported to police about 1:30 Thursday morning that he had been kidnaped and robbed of his money and automobile.

Officers reported that they were told that Mr. Brewton had parked his car near a drug store on Beckley street in Dallas and when he went to get it about 10 o'clock Thursday morning he found it occupied by two young men. One of them held a pistol on him and ordered him to drive south on Highway 75. Some 15 or 20 miles from Dallas, Brewton said he was robbed of between $35 and $40 and forced to get into the back seat of the car, while it proceeded some miles south of Corsicana, where he was put out of the highway. He said the car continued in the direction of Corsicana.

Officers said that the man reported that the stolen money belonged to an insurance company with which he was connected. The man placed a telephone call to Dallas, and afterward was returned to his home by his wife, who drove down for him.

Murdered by Nazis

Engelbert Dollfuss, diminutive Austrian dictator and avowed opponent of Nazism, was shot down in his office in Vienna Wednesday when a large number of Nazis, disguised as loyal government soldiers, forced their way into the government building.

VIENNA, July 26.—(AP)—The dying words of Engelbert Dollfuss, "gamecock chancellor" were for his wife and children.

And Dollfuss, staunch Catholic and defender of the faith, died without the fulfillment of his final wish—a priest. Dollfuss was a close friend of Pope Pius.

A graphic account of the little dictator's end at the hands of 300 Nazi enemies was given by Adolf Aden, new Austrian propaganda chief. Dollfuss was in a corridor of the chancellery building when he heard the plotters, Aden said.

"He went into his own office from there," the official continued, "where an office boy followed him and urged him to flee into the building of the state archives adjoining the chancellery. The chancellor agreed to this proposal."

On his way to the office of the federal president he had to pass the so-called congress hall which has a door leading to the corridors.

"As he entered the congress hall the door was broken in by the plotters, and a group of ten or twelve followed their leader into the room, rushing with drawn pistols upon the chancellor."

"Two shots were fired at close range. One shot hit Dollfuss in the throat and the other below the shoulder."

"To steady himself, the chancellor raised both hands against his face turned a little sideways and dropped backwards to the floor."

"He called out twice in a faint voice."

War Rumblings Grow As Austrian Episode Ends in Civil Strife

By WADE WERNER

VIENNA, July 26.—(AP)—A new Austrian government today smashed at the Nazis who yesterday assassinated Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss, driving armed rebel forces out of the province of Styria into Yugoslavia.

Government troops marched into Ratgersburg, Styria, without opposition in the late afternoon after the Nazis who had held the town for 24 hours decided their cause was lost.

Hundreds of Nazis fled across the bridge into Yugoslavia and surrendered to the authorities there.

Fighting continues elsewhere in the province, however, and 15 men of the government forces alone are known to be dead.

Fighting was continuing from Donawitz to Aussee.

Fears of further trouble in the Tyrol were recalled by an appeal to all able-bodied former officers and soldiers to place themselves at the disposal of auxiliary troops.

At Judenburg, Styria, a railroad bridge was dynamited.

Armed federal men, patrolled Vienna today. But there was desultory fighting and a number were killed.

VIENNA, July 26.—(AP)—The power of the Austrian Fascists, allied in ideals and friendships to the fascists of Italy, mounted to the rule of Austria today.

Prince Ernst von Starhemberg, tall nobleman, and leader of the Fascist Heimwehr, was announced as the new chancellor, succeeding the little commoner, Engelbert Dollfuss, who was assassinated yesterday by the fascists' bitter foes, the Nazis. President Wilhelm Miklas was expected to make the formal appointment of Von Starhemberg today.

But even as the Fascist star ascended, civil war blazed forth in the province of Styria where Nazis battled government forces for control of villages. Early reports did not tell how many were being killed although an official announcement at Graz, capital of the province, said 14 government soldiers were slain.

Styria has for months past been the scene of a terrorist bombing inspired, Dollfuss had charged, by the Nazis who he fought in his efforts to create a "united fatherland."

Everywhere rumors and fears for the peace of Europe as a result of "the stirring events" of yesterday and today were expressed. Armed men were everywhere.

CHANGE IN WHEAT CONTROL IS FORECAST FOR NEXT YEAR AS DROUGHT MAINTAINS ITS GRIP

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—A sweeping change in the AAA's wheat control tactics was under consideration today as the drought tightened its disastrous grip.

Instead of plowing under to cut the crop, officials studied a plan to return to virtually normal acreages next year—but with an ace in the hole. If restricted production were found necessary, part of the crop would be harvested while still green to be used for forage.

Uncertainties in the world wheat situation, as well as lessons learned from the drought, influence the plans.

The new control idea would end the nation's farmers to harvest the crop on normal acreages if that much wheat is needed next season or if the world wheat export agreement collapses and the United States desires more grain for export.

Use For Forage.

Farmers could be held under contract to harvest unmaturing wheat for forage on government instructions.

It was explained that this plan would serve both as partial guarantee against a wheat shortage in case of another bad drought and would furnish food for livestock if ordinary forage ran short.

The disclosure came soon after Dr. Elwood Mead, reclamation commissioner, declared that tens of thousands of people must be evacuated from the western half of the Dakotas, Eastern Montana and Wyoming.

Aghast at the disaster, which left "no green thing" growing, he said the region must be returned to range land. The evacuation of the farmers would be one of the greatest mass move-

PRISON SYSTEM IS ABSOLVED OF BLAME FOR SUNDAY ESCAPES

SEARCH CONTINUES FOR HAMILTON AND TWO COMPANIONS

HUNTSVILLE, July 25.—(P)—The Texas state prison system stood absolved today of blame for the bloody prison break Sunday in which three condemned men escaped from the "death house" one convict was killed and two others shot and wounded.

In a report released last night by W. A. Packard of Houston, chairman of the state prison board, the board held Lee Simmons, general manager, and J. W. Waid, warden of the state penitentiary here, blameless in connection with the break.

The board said it found no evidence on the part of the management or of collusion between guards or prison officials and the convicts, although it criticized the laxity of guards in the time of the breaking of the prison.

Meanwhile, search continued throughout the night for the three desperate criminals who escaped—Raymond Hamilton, Earl J. Palmer and Blackie Thompson.

Police at Denison, near the Texas-Oklahoma line, reported last night that two couples had been held up and robbed of more than $100 at a park in the outskirts of Denison.

One of the victims thought a photograph of Joe Palmer resembled one of the three robbers who were traveling in a black sedan. Police today, however, credited the theory that the robbers were Hamilton, Palmer and Blackie Thompson. Police said the robbers were armed with machine guns.

Traveling in Black Car. The victims said the men were traveling in a black sedan or coach (Ford V-8). Officers were investigating the possibility that it was the same machine stolen Monday night in Vernon by the persons who wrecked the wrecked car in a roadside ditch.

It was identified today as belonging to Dr. T. L. Goodnight of Caldwell, Burleson county, and stolen Monday night from where he had it parked in the court house hospital in Dallas. He went to Dallas to perform an operation.

Dallas police were inclined to think whoever stole the car might have been a Dallas aide in the prison break.

Mary O'Dare, Hamilton's sweetheart, was held in jail at Tyler and officers had intercepted a letter Hamilton wrote to her two days before his escape, promising to meet her in Wichita Falls.

She was in Wichita Falls when the letter was intercepted at Tyler and was arrested, with a woman companion, when she returned to her Tyler apartment Monday.

Mary O'Dare was released from jail today. Officers were silent on developments in connection with her detention.

Warden Waid indicated that there might be a shake-up among the guards on the courthouse. The men he indicated might be changed or discharged but said he planned to strengthen the guard force considerably.

Two Convicts Walk Away. HOUSTON, July 25.—(P)—Houston police today were asked to search for two convicts who walked away from the Harlem state prison farm last yesterday.

The escaped men are V. V. Jennings, 25, serving 25 years from Ford Worth, and Austin Blacklock, 25, serving five years from Nacogdoches.

"GIRL IN RED" TELLS POLICE MORE DETAILS OF JOHN DILLINGER'S FATAL VISIT TO PICTURE SHOW

CHICAGO, July 25.—(P)—From the "Girl in Red" police learned today more about how John Dillinger walked into the trap that ended with death his career of crime.

The "Girl in Red," one of the two women who were with the Indiana outlaw just before he was killed by federal bullets was Mrs. Anna Sage, 42, brown-haired, and brown-eyed. Police arrested her last night at her home just around the corner from the Biograph theatre, out of which Dillinger walked on his last night's flight to his death.

Mrs. Sage told police she knew John Dillinger as "Jim Lawrence," and that he posed as an employee of the Chicago Board of Trade.

From the "Girl in Red" the police learned the story of the last woman Dillinger associated with, named by Mrs. Sage as Mrs. Roy Keefe, 26-year-old divorced wife of a Harry, Ind., policeman—of how Dillinger spent his time just prior to the fatal shooting, and how he said he went to New York recently "on a business trip."

Who Furnished Lead? But it was not learned whether Mrs. Sage or Mrs. Keefe furnished the information with which Dillinger was trapped. Both fled from the scene of the shooting, but Mrs. Sage returned, after changing her red dress for an evening gown, and went back to the scene and later went to her mother's home in Fargo, N. D., Mrs. Sage said.

Secrecy the government agents threw around the affair still persisted and it could not be learned whether either woman would make any claim to the $15,000 reward that hung over the public enemy's head.

Captain Timothy O'Neil of the East Chicago police, who with Sergeant Martin Zarkovich was among the Indiana officers at the death scene, denied emphatically that Mrs. Sage had anything to do with the Dillinger trap, adding that an underworld character had seen Dillinger and had given the information to Zarkovich.

"All this talk about a woman in a red dress tipping us off to Dillinger's whereabouts is untrue," he said.

Sheltered Dillinger Weeks. Captain Thomas Duffy of the Sheffield avenue police, who with Captain John Stege questioned Mrs. Sage at length before she was turned over to the custody of federal agents last night, said he believed that she had sheltered Dillinger knowingly or unknowingly for several weeks. It was in her apartment, the police said they learned, that Dillinger and Mrs. Keefe first met.

The "Girl in Red" told Captain Stege that Dillinger came to her house last Sunday evening, when he played cards with Mrs. Keefe, whose picture the police said they learned was in Dillinger's watch.

Capt. Stege asked her "after you had your dinner Sunday night, who suggested that you go to the theatre?"

"He suggested that theatre," asked Stege.

"Yes, he never said anything until we got to the door. I wanted to go to the uptown, another theatre to see 'Little Miss Marker' and he said he wanted to go around the corner. This is about a block from my house, the Biograph, and then we walked to the show."

Describes Theatre Visit. "I guess Miss Hamilton was in the middle and Dillinger was on the outside. In the theatre I found a seat in the middle. They got a seat down front, way in front. Before the show was over I saw them coming up the aisle and I got up and walked out. We walked out the theatre and went southeast toward my house. When we reached the National Tea store, a big man pushed me off and pulled me and stepped on my foot and I looked around and said 'Say' and he had a gun. I heard a shot in front of me and I looked and saw Dillinger on the ground and I stood there and looked. I did not know what had happened. Polly pulled me by the hand. She said 'Jimmy got shot' and she gave me one pull. There was a big man with a gun and he said 'Just a minute,' and he left us and we walked west."

Stopped By Officers. "One of the officers said, 'Just a minute, just a minute,' and he looked over the crowd and we started to pull me and we walked west on Lincoln avenue south on Sheffield to Fullerton and when we reached the elevated, she said, 'Let's take the elevated,' and I said 'where' and she said 'anywhere. We got on the elevated and got off at Belmont, and I said I was going home and she said 'why go home' and said I wanted to find out what happened. I did not know what was happening. Two men walked on Belmont to Clark and took Clark to Halsted and took Halsted and went home to my house. She was just shaky and she wanted to get out of there. She had a skirt and she slipped that on. I wanted to go to the corner and she did not want to go, she was all nervous. I changed my clothes and went to the corner and every one was yelling that Dillinger was killed.

"I did not know what to think. Dillinger. Then I got scared. Then I went home. She went some place. She did not go home. She went to meet that girl that worked with her. Maxine Dunn. Polly called me from some place on Wilson avenue. She was with Maxine. That was the same night. I don't know how long after the shooting. One hour, two hours, it seemed like a year. I did not call the police. When Polly called she asked me if everything was all right. She said she was afraid to come home. She said it was John Dillinger."

CONGRESSIONAL CANDIDATES IN TEXAS COVER SOME NEW TERRITORY IN PRESENT DRIVE

AUSTIN, July 26.—(P)—Candidates for democratic nominations to congress from the 21 Texas districts, in most cases, are covering some new territory in their plea for votes. All but seven have

The last regular session of the legislature restricted the state to make room for three additional districts to obviate the necessity of sending three representatives at-large under the congressional reapportionment, based on the last federal census, the Lone Star state increased its delegation by three.

It was necessary to shift some counties from one district to another to keep the population of each proportionate. In three of those districts there are no incumbents who reside within the altered lines. One is made up only of Bexar county, which formerly was in the old 14th district, represented by Richard Kleberg of Corpus Christi who is without opposition. Another is in West Texas—with San Angelo approximately the hub. George B. Terrell of Alto, one of the congressmen-at-large, resides in a third new district in East Texas, but he is not a candidate.

Another district where an incumbent does not reside is in the far northwestern part of the state.

Strong Opposes Summers. One of the other congressmen-at-large, Sterling P. Strong of Dallas, is opposing Hattin W. Summers of Dallas, long time a member of the house from the congressmen-at-large, residents in a given district by itself.

Congressman-at-Large Joseph Weldon Bailey is trying to replace Senator Tom Connally in the upper house.

There is a hot race in the Bexar county for congressman from the new 20th district. C. K. Quinn, mayor of San Antonio; Maury Maverick, Bexar county tax collector; John K. Weber, until recently chairman of the Bexar county democratic executive committee; Thurman Barrett, and R. F. (Dick) Cullen, are contending for the nomination.

Incumbents who are unopposed are Kleberg, Wright Patman of Texas, first district; Martin Dies of Jasper, second; J. J. Mansfield of Columbus, ninth; J. Buchanan of Brenham, tenth; R. E. Thomson of El Paso, 15th; and Marvin Jones of Amarillo, 18th.

All are members, or chairmen, of important committees. Governor county, home of Congressman Clark W. Thompson, was taken from the seventh district and placed in the ninth, the ballwicked served so long by Mansfield. He did not care to oppose Mansfield.

Sanders Has Three Opponents. Morgan Sanders of Canton, a member of the ways and means committee, was opposed by three in the third district; Garland R. Farmer, Henderson of Longview and Herman V. Puckett of Quitman. Sam Rayburn of Bonham, of the fourth district, chairman of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce committee, and close personal friend of Vice-President John N. Garner, has as opponent Jesse Morris of Greenville.

The place of Luther A. Johnson of Corsicana, sixth district, of the foreign affairs committee, is contested by E. E. Crech of Ennis and Tom White of Ellis county.

There are six candidates in the new seventh district, home of Congressman-at-large Terrell who refused to ask a return to congress, with an explanation he was out of tune with present day democratic policies. Those after the place are Roger Davis of Nacogdoches, Bonner Frizzell of Palestine, I. T. Fulham of Brownboro, W. D. Justice of Athens, State Senator Nat Patton of Crockett and J. Lewis Thompson of Woodlake.

Eagle Must Defeat Five. In the eighth district, Harris county only, Joe H. Eagle of Houston, a member of the merchant marine, radio, fisheries and world war veterans' legislation, committees, is opposed by W. Everett Dippuy, Frank Putnam, A. Weldon, John Nisling and J. B. Simons, all of Houston.

State Senator W. R. Poage of Waco is opposing the renomination of O. H. Cross of Waco, member of the banking and currency committee.

Fritz G. Lanham of Fort Worth, 12th district, has Fred J. Berry and Theo. Koenig, both of Fort Worth, as opponents.

W. D. McFarlane of Graham, 13th district, is opposed by Geo. W. Backus of Vernon and Sam B. Spence of Wichita Falls.

CONTINUATION DROUGHT, HEAT OVER NATION IS REPORTED BY WEATHER BUREAU; BIG DAMAGE

WASHINGTON, July 25.—(P)—Continuation of the drought and heat over a major portion of the country, with new damage to crops and livestock, was reported today by the weather bureau in its weekly crop bulletin.

"Large areas of the interior had record-breaking heat and no precipitation of consequence, many stations reporting no rain at all," the bulletin said.

In most sections between the Mississippi river and the Rocky Mountains, all crops, except cotton in the south, showed "extremely rapid deterioration. Even trees are dying in sections of the great plains."

Western Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona and Utah had "helpful showers" which, however, afforded only temporary relief.

Generally speaking, the bulletin said, "all sections of the country, except parts of the southeast, need good rains, though local scattered rains have sufficient soil moisture for present needs."

Further damage to the wheat crop was indicated by the statement that spring wheat had ripened prematurely under unusually high temperatures.

"Throughout the great plains states and from Southern Iowa southward, heat and dryness have exacted a heavy toll of the corn crop," the report added.

Unfavorable conditions struck corn at its most critical stage of growth, and in most places "all but a small percentage has been heavily and irreparably damaged."

Meadows and pastures in the entire area from the Appalachian mountains westward need rain badly, the bureau said, with conditions in the lower Missouri valley and great plains sections, such that livestock cannot be supported on lands available.

"Streams, wells, and stock water supplies are rapidly becoming depleted in this region, with some localities hauling water for all uses," it said.

The past week was moderately warm in the southern portion of the cotton belt and abnormally not in the northern portion. Showers were rather general in the eastern half, but in the west they were confined to relatively small areas in Texas.

In general, the cotton crop made "satisfactory progress east of the Mississippi river, but in most of the west unfavorable dryness continued."

Two Women Arrested. CHICAGO, July 25.—(P)—Two women tenants of a basement flat were taken into custody today by a police squad under Capt. John Stege on a tip that the flat had been a hideout of John Dillinger.

One of the women was Frances (Patsy) Frechette, 25, sister of Evelyn Frechette, the slain desperado's former sweetheart, now serving a sentence for harboring the bandit.

The other was Margaret Edwards, 30.

The women denied Dillinger had ever been permitted to enter their apartment.

GOOD PROGRESS IS REPORTED TUESDAY COURT HOUSE WORK

HYDRAULIC JACKS BEING USED IN PUSHING BACK WALLS OF BUILDING

Hydraulic jacks used in the lifting and pushing back settling and buckling walls at the Navarro county courthouse have lifted the southwest corner of the building 2 1/4 inches, J. E. Metcalf, Sr., superintendent of the work, announced Tuesday afternoon. The shores and jacks will be left under the walls and foundations for a day or two and then the huge steel beam wedges will be placed and concrete poured about them, followed by the refilling the excavations with dirt.

Excavations are under way directly under the sheriff's office and the corner under the American Legion and county court-rooms will then be fixed and reinforcements made for those sectors.

As soon as the shores are removed from the southwest corner, and county judge's offices, excavations under the main front entrance of the building will be started preparatory to re-inforcing the foundations there and the pushing back into place that section of the wall which has caused a large crack adjacent to the commissioners room on the second floor.

Labor for the extensive repairs under way at the courthouse is being furnished from the local unemployment office while the commissioners court is de-fraying the expense of materials, the shoring, etc.

The work was started several months ago.

Workers are busy placing dirt from the excavations about the courthouse lawn, filling in low places and raising the level of the yard.

Test Near Malakoff Expected Be Spudded Sometime Thursday

MALAKOFF, July 26.—(Spl.)—The Crosby-Culp Dodd No. 1 well, two miles east of Malakoff, was expected to be spudded in Thursday following a barbecue celebrating the occasion Wednesday night. The well is drawing especial interest in this territory as it is expected to determine the extent of the oil field in this section. It is west of the Black test and is reported higher. Leases were changing hands rapidly Thursday and prices ranged from $5 to $10 per acre.

Log Cabin At Home of Sam J. Little

WEATHERFORD, July 26.—(Spl.)—Sam J. Little, court stenographer of the 43rd district, has built a unique log cabin at his home place in the western part of this city. It is built of Parker county post oak and black jack logs. The trees were trucked into town from a distance of about 13 miles.

The walls are eight feet high and it is roofed with solid shingles on two by four rafters placed two feet apart. On top is a layer of roofing felt paper and mingled shaded composition shingles. There is a front porch at the entrance and a rock chimney at the opposite end. The chimney is built of Parker county native stone. There is an overhead attic half way of the length of the building. Furniture in the building includes bed rack, clothes hangers, lift-up and let down home made bed; chuck wagon style wall pantries with shelving for dishes and food, having the appearance of an old-styled cupboard. The door to the cupboard hinges from the bottom up, and when closed closes the pantry, when let down makes a table protruding

In Memoriam.
In memory of Mrs. Eliza Bragg Davis, who departed this life July 19, 1934, at the age of 72 at Roane, Texas.

It was my good pleasure to be a childhood friend of this good woman. We grew up together and went to the same school which stood by the old spring, where we put our bottles of milk, and when the teacher said "put time" we took our bottles out and sat down under the shade of the trees and with the other children, drank our milk and ate our corn bread. I saw her as she grew up into womanhood—that fine specimen of pioneer woman, just the kind that would make a real wife. I sat in that same school house and saw her go down the aisle and give her hand to the preacher and give her life and all she had, or ever expected to have, to that One and Only One who is able to save a man's soul.

Awake back in the 70's a young man, impressed with the words of Horace Greeley, who said, "Young man, go West," left the pine hills of Georgia and came to the Roane community, John Davis by name, and became the husband of this good friend of mine, who preceded her. Three children were born into this home. Mrs. John Estes, Roane; John E. Davis, Corsicana, and Hubert Davis, Pampa.

I knew her as a bride and as a mother, and all these years she was my neighbor and my friend. May I say to you children: Mother, I fulfilled every promise she ever made and when the end came, as it must come to all of us, she left a character unstained and without blemish. As I stood by and saw the body lowered into the grave, I could not but think of that Scripture that says, "This body shall return back to dust, but the spirit shall go back to God who gave it," and as Christ departed from this earth He said to His disciples, "I go to prepare a place for you, that where I am there ye may be also." Children and friends, what a great consolation to know there is no guesswork where mother is today, and if she could only speak from that place away off somewhere, she would say "Why weep? I am not there, I am here." A friend, Wm. CONNER.

RECORD-VOTE NOW INDICATED; MANY ABSENTEE BALLOTS

FOUR HUNDRED AND FORTY EIGHT VOTED UP TO NOON THURSDAY

Indications at noon Thursday were that there would be a record vote in the July 23 Democratic first primary election in Navarro county from the absentee ballots cast at the county clerk's office.

There had been 448 absentee ballots received at the clerk's office Thursday noon, while other ballots are expected to be received in the mail later. Absentee voting in person ended at midnight Wednesday night, and County Clerk L. C. (Bridge) Morgan is scheduled to send the ballots to the respective precinct chairmen late Thursday.

There had been 249 absentee ballots registered in the four wards in Corsicana, leaving 199 for the remaining 44 boxes in the county. Political observers maintain there are two reasons for this record absentee vote—the main one is that the people are interested in the selection of officers for the next two years and the other is that economic conditions are not as adverse as they were two years ago and more people are able to vote.

There were only 262 votes cast prior to the first primary election in 1932.

NEW HIGHWAY TO BE OPENED TO TRAFFIC EARLY NEXT WEEK

Traffic over the newest section of Highway 22 between Corsicana and Hillsboro will be started early next week over the 6.3 miles of 18-foot concrete from a point in the Corsicana-State Home road to the extreme northwestern boundary of Consolidated Road District No. 1, northwest of Finkton, L. Bowers, resident state highway engineer, announced Tuesday afternoon.

The slab has been ready for traffic for several days, but due to the hazard of accidents to state employees and others doing the final work on shouldering, etc. when traffic is turned on to a new road before all work is completed, officials have not moved the barricades.

Several accidents resulted when other highways in Navarro county were opened before all the shouldering had been finished.

George Arliss At Palace on Sunday

"The House of Rothschild," Geo. Arliss' first vehicle under his new starring contract with 20th Century Pictures which begins today run at Palace Theatre Sunday was considered so important by producers Joseph M. Schenck and Darryl F. Zanuck that all other production activities at the studio were held up during its filming. This is the first time in the Hollywood history that such a tribute has been paid to a picture by a major producing company.

The film which traces the rise of the famous European banking family from obscurity in Frankfurt, Germany, to the position of international prominence it had gained at the end of the Napoleonic wars, presents Mr. Arliss in two roles—first as mayor Amsehl Rothschild, the father of the five brothers who made the family's name celebrated, and later as Nathan Rothschild, the brother who founded the English branch of the family.

Featured in support of Arliss are Boris Karloff as the wicked Baron Ledrantz, Loretta Young, who plays Nathan's daughter, Julie, and Robert Young as Fitzroy, her fiancé and aide to the Duke of Wellington.

CORSICANA, TEX., JULY 27, 1934

RFC MONEY COMES BACK

R. F. C. loans may be philanthropic, but they are not charity. The fact is shown clearly in the largest class of loans made by this first-aid institution, those made to bank and trust companies. Of $1,606,000, 000 advanced to such concerns since the R. F. C. was established in February, 1932, nearly two-thirds has been repaid.

Railroads, the next biggest block of borrowers, have not done so well, repaying $58,000,000 out of $411,000,000. Mortgage loan companies, third in borrowings, have repaid $78,000,000 out of $265,000,000. Both of these groups require more time. Of cash advances of all kinds to private enterprise totaling $4,101,000,000, there has been repaid $1,517,000,000. The R. F. C. has also advanced $1,437,000,000 to federal agency relief. That money presumably will be repaid in full from federal appropriations, and not charged permanently to the R. F. C.

Altogether it is not a bad showing, with substantially a billion and a half out of four billions already repaid by private business. Thus rough-and-ready estimates treating the R. F. C. loans as if they were expenditures rather than payable loans are obviously unsound. It seems unlikely now that more than a few hundred millions will be lost from these billions. The R. F. C., widely misunderstood at first, is one of the most successful of the recovery devices.

FEMALE PREROGATIVE

Woman's sphere of liberty, already extensive, seems enlarged further by a decision from Judge Eugene O'Dunne of Baltimore in a marriage annulment case. Declaring void the marriage of a girl who objected, then let herself be persuaded by friends, and changed her mind again after the ceremony. His Honor is both analytical and poetical.

"Decisions dissecting the feminine mind, soul and body and their several requirements" he says, "are at their best mere man-made law, and law never accepted as binding on the female of the species. Has any man ever been born who could interpret the female heart? What are the limitations, if any, legal or human, on the right of the female to change her mind at any time on any subject, as she would her dress or brand of perfume?" She may do so regardless of consequences "and without any sense of responsibility either to God, law or man, especially in affairs of the heart."

"It is a God-given if not constitutionally recognized and guaranteed right. She needs no legal guarantees. She simply exercises the female prerogative."

So that's settled. Many women will applaud. Others, though, won't like it so well. The judge will be hearing from them.

Ernst Hanfstaengel, the German press chief who has been over for a Harvard reunion, says abandonment of prohibition didn't bring any "alcoholic chaos," as the gobs feared. Certainly it didn't. It brought alcoholic order. Millions ordering.

The sensible fellow gets himself a couple of hours' vacation every day.

THE DITCH DIGGER TALKS.

A youngster to his father said:
"I ran away from school today.
I thought I'd rather work instead
And earn a grown man's pay."

"For all you said I failed to heed,
But I have had a talk today
With one who scarce can write
And read,
And I am back at home to stay."

"A digger of a ditch was he,
Who said, while leaning on his spade,
"The only strong you have to be
To learn my very common trade."

"I could have gone to school but I
About the self-same age as you,
Threw every chance for knowledge
by
To get a job that I could do."

"Man gets no further than his will.
In spite of blunders and mistakes,
The place in life which he shall fill
Is settled by the choice he makes."

"Nothing more you wish to be
Than I am now, then run away.
But, youngster, take this tip
from me,
This is a cheerless place to stay."

A digger of a ditch was he,
Who met a boy and understood,
And showed him things he ought to see
Much better than his father could.

COURTSY CALL

President Roosevelt's stop at Cartagena, seaport of Colombia, passed off pleasantly, without untoward incidents. Americans had feared that Colombians might show some grudge they have felt against the United States ever since the separation of Panama and the establishment of the Canal Zone under the American flag.

That grudge is better understood now than it was in our imperialistic days, after the Spanish War, when Spanish-America seemed a romantic realm for American adventure. Most of us are no longer proud of the domineering and patronizing part we played, while that mood was on us. We have grown into new appreciation of the independence and dignity of our sister republics to the south, and our need of their friendship and trust in an uncertain and largely hostile world.

For the sake of decency, self-respect and future assurance, we are inclined to show new respect for Latin-American rights and institutions, and eager to be a good neighbor. We look forward, too, as doubtless many Latin-Americans and Canadians do, to the development of a genuine Pan-American hemisphere, a great bloc of nations dominated by new, free ideals and ready to stand, if necessary, against the rest of the world.

The Colombians, during the President's unprecedented visit, were model hosts, all courtesy and friendliness. If would be well if American tourists in private life would get into the habit of visiting that pleasant and historic seaport, with a look also, perhaps, at the hinterland.

LANDS OF PROMISE

A good story with a good deal of human appeal figured in the news the other day. Mr. and Mrs. Nikata Kachura, Russians, were reunited in Detroit, after 21 years of separation. It was the year before the outbreak of the World War that Nikata decided to leave his native land and seek a better life for himself and his family in the New World. He did not have enough money to take them all—his wife and three small children—so he bade the four good-bye and set out alone.

"I will get a job, save some money, and then send for all of you," he promised, and his wife promised to come as soon as he sent for them.

For various reasons the plan was harder to bring to fruition than the young Kachuras had thought. The husband had many different jobs and drifted through a number of cities before he found he had enough money to send for his family—just one year and two decades after he had left them.

Kachura and his wife, now in their fifties, were glad to be together again. She said:

"I am here as I promised. Nikata. But the children—they would not come. They

TOP OF THE WORLD!

BET-TAKING UNION

At the opening of a race track meet in Ohio, it develops that there is a Mutual Clerks Association, less fancily known as the "bet-takers' union," which operates on a closed-shop basis and pickets windows where volunteers from New Orleans and Canada want to muscle in.

Gambling seems to be getting on a more solid basis right along nowadays. It isn't clear from the news reports whether this and other groups employed in gambling are flying the Blue Eagle. If not, they will doubtless be demanding code protection, like clerks in more prosaic occupations. There may yet be codes of fair practice for policy and craps.

But will the consumer be adequately represented? With all the money now being lost in this country on gambling rackets, it is important for the losers to be assured that they have lost fairly.

DRIVERS, EAT TEM- PORARILY

Here is a new slant on sobriety and a new peril for motor traffic. A police judge rules that a person may become intoxicated on other products than alcoholic liquor, and warns drivers accordingly.

A young man charged with driving while drunk protested that he had merely taken medicine on the order of his physician, and the medicine produced an appearance of drunkenness. His statement was corroborated by the doctor. It made no difference to the judge.

"Intoxication produced by medicine, food and drink other than intoxicating liquor," ruled His Honor, "makes an auto driver just as liable under the law as if he were drunk on whiskey."

So reckless eaters, like ailing patients, had better be careful. Many a traffic accident, no doubt, has come from the spiritual uplift of too much quinine, or the toxic effect of a mess of sauerkraut or half a mince pie.

It's curious that railroads, lowering passenger rates to help their own business, want to raise freight rates higher, thereby hurting everybody's.

are all grown up now, you know, and they have married. They are part of the new Russia. They would not come with me to a capitalistic land."

In which speech there is much food for thought.

PRODUCERS OF IDEAS

A newspaper editor tells a college publicity association: "I question whether athletic eminence is the best publicity a college can get, in the long run. Those colleges are getting better publicity which are accomplishing something constructive, something definitely worthwhile, in contributing to the thought and life of the times."

"The college is and should be the bulwark of our democratic institutions. If I were you, I would make a practice of obtaining from your best professors timely interviews on important national and international affairs."

"I wish you would go back to your college presidents and tell them that if they want good publicity, the best way is for them to improve their faculties, to get teachers who are producers of ideas, who can contribute to the thought of the nation."

The colleges are really doing this much more than they used to.

A Wall Street writer calls the market "apathetic." Looks from here just pathetic.

NEW DEAL HAMPERED BY MONOPOLIES SAYS SENATOR FROM IDAHO

ST. ANTHONY, Idaho, July 24. —(P)—Senator William E. Borah called for the destruction of monopoly today, denouncing it as "the most insidious and most successful enemy of the new deal."

Flinging down the gauntlet to "defenders of monopoly," the Idaho senator told an annual Pioneer Day audience: "They will have to fight in the open."

His address bristled with epigrams—"monopolies are economic Hitlerites".... "The effect of monopoly is to decrease, if not to destroy, purchasing power".... "The farmer can never win out on that basis."

"The address bristled with epigrams—"monopolies are economic Hitlerites".... "The effect of monopoly is to decrease, if not to destroy, purchasing power".... "The farmer can never win out on that basis."

"When I discuss the question of monopoly," he said, "I am accused of attacking the new deal" by critics "unwilling or unable to meet the question presented."

"Is monopoly and the new deal one and the same thing?"

Purchasing Power Cut.
"One of the announced purposes of the new deal, in fact the basic purpose, was to increase purchasing power. The effect of monopoly is to decrease, if not to destroy, purchasing power among the people."

"The most insidious and most successful enemy of the new deal, according to its announced purposes, is this power of vast combinations to fix prices and to rake off all the gains which may come to the farmers, the producers or the laborers."

"The defenders of monopoly will not be permitted to hide behind the new deal. They will have to fight in the open."

Declaring that purchasing power must be restored to the great mass of people, the senator said one of the things "which stands most in the way of the restoration of purchasing power to the masses is monopoly, the power to fix unjust and exorbitant prices."

"After a heroic effort of months upon the part of the government, the purchasing power of the farmers and the purchasing power of the laborer have been put little increased, if at all," he said.

"Figures show conclusively that while there has been some rise in prices of farm commodities, in every instance where that has taken place, the rise in the prices of things which the farmer has to buy has exceeded the rise in the price of his commodities."

"The farmer can never win out on that basis."

"This rise is not due to economic forces but is due in a large measure, if not wholly, to the arbitrary, artificial power of monopoly to fix prices."

"What under heaven is to be gained by the farmer reducing his production if, after the reduction takes place, he is still the manipulated victim of combines and monopolies?"

"Some things have been done designed to help the producer and I am in full sympathy with those things."

"But what I object to is leaving in our industrial setup this uncontrolled power which literally manipulates markets and fixes prices, practically making it impossible for the producer even to realize anything from the government's efforts or from his own efforts."

ALCOHOLIC DRINKS TAX PUT MILLIONS IN U. S. TREASURY

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(P)—Taxes on alcoholic drinks poured $258,811,332 into the treasury's internal revenue pocket the past fiscal year.

This was disclosed by the treasury today in analyzing a total gain of $1,050,000,000 in internal revenue collections during the twelve months ended June 30.

About $700,000,000 of this increase was accounted for by such new levies as alcohol, capital stock, dividends and processing taxes.

Guv T. Helvering, commissioner of internal revenue, sought to nullify reports that the cotton processing tax had been largely evaded. He pointed to an actual tax return of $144,767,232 in place of the $122,000,000 estimated in advance.

Individual income taxes of $419,508,487 were $66,835,867 ahead of the preceding year, but corporation returns of $397,515,851 topped the preceding figure by only $2,298,068.

The capital stock tax, imposed for the first time, brought in $50,168,344 and the dividends tax $50,229,122.

Beer taxes accounted for $163,276,608 with the tax on domestic spirits reaching $61,889,863. Taxes on imported liquors brought in $6,877,958. The tobacco tax totaled $428,182,000.

Manufacturers' excise taxes turned $390,044,714 into the till, a gain of $142,257,899. Processing taxes laid on the processing of farm products so the government can get money to reimburse farmers for cutting production, totaled $371,422,885.

GULF STORM

The Red Cross chapter at Bay City met today to ask immediate aid for the stricken area near Sargent.

It was estimated that at least 75 per cent of the houses at Matagorda were wrecked or damaged. "This town looks about like Annapolis did after the hurricane two years ago," said one resident who estimated the damage at Matagorda and in that immediate section alone at $200,000.

Men on horseback and in boats searched the inundated sections today, looking for bodies and persons possibly drowned.

Cotton bunn and bunnies at Corpus Christi were of the opinion that the storm cost Nueces county $2,500,000 in cotton losses alone.

Between 80 and 85 per cent of the cotton in the county was lost, picking and it was ruined. Not more than 30 per cent of the crop had been picked previously.

County Agent W. M. Sellers said he did not believe the county would gain more than 10,000 bales. Normally it gains around 50,000 bales.

HOUSTON, July 26.—(P)—The Texas coast from Galveston to Corpus Christi today dug out from the wreckage of an 80-mile-an-hour hurricane that swept that area yesterday and counted the property damage at hundreds of thousands of dollars with a death toll that may reach more than 20.

The heaviest loss of life was believed around Bay City. Carey Smith, editor of the Bay City Tribune said this morning that around 17 persons were missing in the Bay City and Sargent area.

They were all believed to have been swept to death when a wall of water pushed by the 80-mile wind, rushed over the lowlands there for a distance of six miles inland.

CONNALLY RALLY

FRIDAY AFTERNOON TO DRAW HUNDREDS

EXPECT NUMEROUS DELEGATIONS FROM SURROUNDING COUNTRY BE HERE

All preparations for the address in the district court room at the court house Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Tom Connally, United States senator, seeking reelection to a second term, had been made Thursday at noon by local Connally supporters and a large crowd is expected to attend.

Senator Connally supporters and a large crowd is expected to attend. Senator Connally will arrive in Corpus Christi from Abilene about 1 o'clock and after his appearance here, will go to Dallas where he concludes his campaign Friday evening.

Hon. Rufus Hardy, former congressman, who served with Connally in the lower house, will be chairman of the reception committee.

Hon. Richard Mays, well-known local attorney, will preside at the meeting and Judge C. L. Jester will introduce Senator Connally.

The only damage from Kingsville to Port Lavaca was said to have been unroofed houses, stripped trees, the leveling of flimsy structures, the loss of small boats and crop losses.

The Hug-Coast Highway was clear through to Port Lavaca, with very little debris strewn along the route.

HUNDREDS CATTLE LOST. GALVESTON, July 26.—(P)—Several hundred head of cattle were lost when high tides inundated the western portion of Galveston Island during the Gulf hurricane yesterday. Failure of stockmen to receive warning of the impending storm prevented them from moving some 500 cattle and several score horses and mules to a safer portion of the island.

BEAUMONT, July 26.—(P)—About 1,000 persons marooned on High Island by the tidal wave which hit the Texas Gulf coast, were unable to leave today and indications were that they might not be able to get away for two or three more days.

While the water had receded, roads leading to the island were washed out in all directions. The road linking Beaumont and High Island was still under water in places.

OWNER HOME WHERE DILLINGER HAD FACE REVAMPED JUMPS TO DEATH

CHICAGO, July 26.—(P)—Brought to the office of the federal bureau of investigation for questioning in connection with the Dillinger case, James Probasco, 67, a West Side resident, committed suicide today by jumping from a 10th floor window to the alley below.

S. P. Cowley, in charge of the bureau in the absence of Melvin H. Purvis, said the government had been informed that it was Probasco's home at 2509 North Crawford avenue that Dillinger had his face lifting operation performed.

Agents had gone to Probasco's home this morning and he accompanied them without objections. Cowley said that Dillinger had his face lifting operation performed at the home of Probasco. He said the physician who performed the operation had not yet been taken, but that the government agents were after him.

All reports indicated that the powers were in strong accord that the danger of Anschluss, or Austro-German union, which is deemed certain to bring on preventive war or at least occupation, hangs heavy over Europe today.

On arriving in Corsicana, the driver went to bed leaving the boy in the truck. Sometime later he awoke to find the truck gone. He joined officer Allen York and the truck was found about a mile east of town on Highway 31, with the boy asleep in the seat. No Fire Damage Resulted From Two Recent Fire Alarms

Two alarms were received by the Corsicana Fire department Wednesday night and Thursday morning, but no damage resulted in either case.

The first call came at 10:25 Wednesday night from McClendon Park, on the banks of Lake Halbert and was occasioned by a grass fire, which was quickly extinguished.

The second call came from the ruins of the Hardy Peck building about 6 o'clock Thursday morning when smoldering debris in the former quarters of the gas company broke into flames.

MINNEAPOLIS UNDER GUARDSMEN AS PEACE PROPOSAL REJECTED

UNION TRUCK DRIVERS ACCEPT MEDIATION PLANS; EMPLOYERS REFUSED

MINNEAPOLIS, July 26. (AP)—Four thousand national guardsmen were ordered to place Minneapolis under military rule today by Gov. Floyd E. Olson after warring factions in the truck drivers strike failed to agree on final peace plans submitted them by federal mediators.

The martial rule decree, at 12:20 p. m. Central Standard time, followed by about an hour the acceptance of the peace plan by the Drivers' Union, No. 574, and a reply from the employers' advisory committee accepting some terms with reservations but rejecting the wage scale suggested by the Rev. Francis Haas and E. H. Dunnigan, mediators.

Brig. Gen. E. A. Walsh was immediately appointed by the governor as commander of the troops who will move into the city in force immediately. Some 800 already were stationed outside the boundaries of Minneapolis while the balance of the 4,000 men were stationed at the fair grounds adjacent the city limits and over points nearby.

General Walsh began preparation of regulations to be placed into effect. Previously, the governor had announced courts would function as usual and that only those areas of city affected by the strike, including last Friday with a burst of shotgun fire that wounded one man fatally and most of the 67 others injured in the fray, would be put under control of the troops.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 26. (AP)—Acceptance of all but the wage scale provision in peace terms designed to settle the truck drivers' strike was voted today by the employers' advisory committee.

Reports that the drivers' union viewed favorably the proposition strengthened hope the walkout would be settled soon and dissipate the need of military rule.

Of the wage scale of 42 1/2 cents an hour for inside workers, helpers and platform men, and 52 1/2 cents an hour for drivers, as recommended by mediators, the employers said:

"It is ridiculous and out of all reason to suggest an arbitration of wage scale, by a stipulation that arbitration must start with a minimum scale that is an increase of the existing minimum scale."

Mediators' Terms Not Especially Liked

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 26. Each turn of the clock's hands brought military rule closer for strike-ridden Minneapolis today.

On the answers to truck owners' demands for mediators' final peace terms depended Gov. Floyd B. Olson's decision whether to place 4,000 additional guardsmen in control at noon. The troops already were in the city and its environs.

Members of the Drivers' Union met several hours before that "deadline" to vote on the terms. Their strike committee decided last night in favor of acceptance, then reconsidered, voting to put the matter up to a mass meeting.

The employers' advisory committee was reliably reported to have voted against the settlement stipulations, but the owners' decision had not been communicated to the mediators.

Rejection by either side meant that the governor would decree military rule, he said.

Presentment at the chief executive for the threatening military intervention was voiced by the employers' committee.

Strike leaders who suffered one dead and 67 others hurt, most of them wounded by police shotgun fire last Friday when an effort was made to halt a loaded truck, gave no indication of their reception of the peace terms.

Drafted by the Rev. Francis Haas and E. H. Dunnigan, the proposal for settlement provided for the immediate end of the strike, elections to determine union representation for employees, establishment of a board of arbitration and a wage scale ranging from 42 1/2 cents an hour for inside workers, handiers, and platform men to 52 1/2 cents an hour for drivers.

Gathering of Boys Interested In Rural Scouting on Sunday

Oscar H. Benson, Director, Department of Rural Scouting, Boy Scouts of America.

Plans were announced complete by local Scouting officials for the gathering of boys interested in rural scouting, and parents interested in this subject at the Educational building of the First Methodist Church Sunday afternoon, July 29, at 2:30.

O. H. Benson, national director of rural scouting and founder of the 4-H club movement in the United States, will be the principal speaker for the occasion. Mr. Benson is en route to College Station for the annual short course where he will present his work daily to the state gathering of farmers and future farmers.

Other prominent scout leaders who will attend are James P. Fitch, regional scout executive; Orton L. Duggan, scout executive for Circle Ten council, and W. G. Echols, field executive for the council, in addition to local leaders.

It has been announced that Navarro county is one of ten such districts selected in Texas for the introduction of rural scouting. Rural scouting is said to combine the outstanding features of both the 4-H club work and Boys Scouts of America work, and has proven a marked success in other sections of the United States.

LITTLE CHANCELLOR RULED AUSTRIA JUST FOURTEEN MONTHS

(By The Associated Press)

Engelbert Dollfuss became Austria's "Little Chancellor"—no was only four feet, 11 inches tall—May 21, 1933.

Unstable parliamentary governments had preceded him and his position was insecure from the start. Nazis and Socialists opposed him and both parties were strong.

But Dollfuss showed himself to be a fighter. He was determined to preserve Austria's independence. Eventually he became a dictator.

Civil war, terrorism, hangings followed.

The little chancellor still held command, supported by Fascists and National Socialists.

A devout man, he proposed a sort of divine rule. The power to rule, he said, should come from God instead of from the people. Parliament granted his wishes gave him more power and vested itself out of existence.

Then came more violence against the government. There were bombings and attempt on Dollfuss' life. Nazis were blamed.

Early this week the government arrested some 1,500 Socialists, Communists and Nazis. One young Socialist was hanged Tuesday night for a bombing and the shooting of a policeman.

Dollfuss immediately began plans for sterner measures to prevent demonstrations.

But Nazis, who wanted Austria joined with Germany in a political union, stopped these plans. They killed Dollfuss.

PROLONGED DROUGHT BROKEN IN SOUTH BY GULF HURRICANE

OTHER PARTS OF TEXAS ARE HOPEFUL OF GETTING RAINS SOON

(By The Associated Press.)

The destructive gulf hurricane which deluged much of South Texas with rain broke a prolonged drought in that section and today the rest of the state was hopeful unsettled weather would bring needed moisture.

Scattered showers fell in the panhandle, lowering temperatures. While rainfall was heaviest along the South Texas coast, the precipitation extended far inland west and north, drenching ranges and crops. Along the coast itself the downpour was so hard, driven by an 30-mile wind that it apparently did more harm than good but farther inland its effects were beneficial.

Corpus Christi had 3.96 inches; Del Rio, 1.10; Austin, .52; San Antonio, 2.45; and other points in that region similar amounts. Oppressive heat was broken at these points.

Uvalde said the stock ranges along the border were soaked by rains varying from one to three inches. In some instances it was the first rainfall of consequence in 18 months. High winds uprooted trees and blew down some windmills around Uvalde but the damage was negligible compared with benefits from the rain.

Laredo reported rainfall early today, definitely breaking the drought. Precipitation over the Laredo section ranged from 1.5 to 2 inches.

In other parts of the state hot weather continued but no new heat deaths were reported. Tyler was a bit cooler, however, the maximum temperature there being only 94. Longview reported a top reading for Wednesday of 103. Dallas and vicinity remained sweltering hot.

Fredericksburg had 1.06 inches of rain and Fearsell 1.91 inches, with a high wind.

VOTERS URGED TO SUPPORT WITT FOR GOVERNOR OF TEXAS

TOM TYSON, OF FRANKLIN, MADE ADDRESS HERE TUESDAY NIGHT

Appealing for the support of Edgar E. Witt, lieutenant governor of Texas, for governor in Saturday's primary election, Tom Tyson of Franklin, formerly district attorney, declared that Witt was the best qualified for the office and was the person to unite the factions which have divided Texas politically for the past 20 years since James E. Ferguson appeared on the horizon of Texas politics. He was introduced by A. A. Allison, local postmaster.

The speaking was held in the district court room of the courthouse, Tuesday night.

Tyson reviewed Witt's record in the Texas Legislature, Texas Senate for 12 years and as lieutenant governor for the past four years in addition to his service in the U. S. Army in the World War. He said Witt fostered the franchise tax which nets $2,000,000 revenue annually and exacted the promise and was mainly responsible for the 25 per cent reduction in governmental expenditures by the powerful Senate finance committee two years ago. He outlined Witt's championing of all tax removal from $3,000 homesteads, the abolition of the poll tax and a reduction of the auto registrations. He said the $100,000,000 delinquent taxes which must be paid would retire the $20,000,000 relief bonds and run the state government two years if collected.

He said Maury Hughes' main bid for the governorship was in championing the repeal of the liquor laws; that C. C. McDondald was the Ferguson-anointed candidate to take defeat when Ferguson realized his wife could not be re-elected; that Clint Small was a political corpse and that $100,000 was being spent on his candidacy. Turning his attention to James V. Allred, attorney general, who is seeking the governorship, the speaker referred to his claims of being a poor boy but stated he was spending $10,000 in a radio-hook-up in one night and flayed him for alleged failure of promise in his campaigns for the attorney-generalship in 1930 and 1932 and for some of his official acts in office.

CONNALLY SPEAKS FRIDAY AFTERNOON AT THREE O'CLOCK

Damages in the sum of $35,000 are sought in a suit filed in the district clerk's office Wednesday afternoon for Harlan Roberson against the Texas and New Orleans railroad company.

Roberson, a youth, residing in the Dawson community, is alleged to have lost his left foot and a portion of his right foot, May 23, 1934, at the railroad crossing in Corsicana. The petition maintains it was necessary for the left leg to be amputated at the knee and that some of his toes on the right foot were cut off by a freight engine at a crossing here.

Actual damages are sought in the sum of $25,000, punitive damages of $10,000 are asked.

The suit was filed by Ramsey Cox.

Coulee-Project Aids Northwest

Construction camps for Grand Coulee project. Dr. Elwood Mead

View of the turbulent Columbia river in Washington.

Another unit in President Roosevelt's far-flung line of power projects is arising on the Columbia river in Washington where two huge dams, composing the Grand Coulee project, to cost more than $246,000,000 will create a huge artificial lake bringing irrigation water to thousands of parched acres and generating almost two and a half million horsepower to help electrify homes and aid industry in the great northwest. Dr. Elwood Mead, U. S. reclamation chief, is supervising the work.

As Army Flyers Took Off on Alaskan Flight

At least one Roosevelt was around to bid bon voyage to the ten big U. S. army bombing planes when they took off from Bolling field, Washington, D. C., on the first leg of the long flight to Alaska.

Here are some of the giant ships leaving the field. Inset, Elliott Roosevelt, son of the president, being shown the "works" by Lieut. Col. Henry Arnold, flight commander.

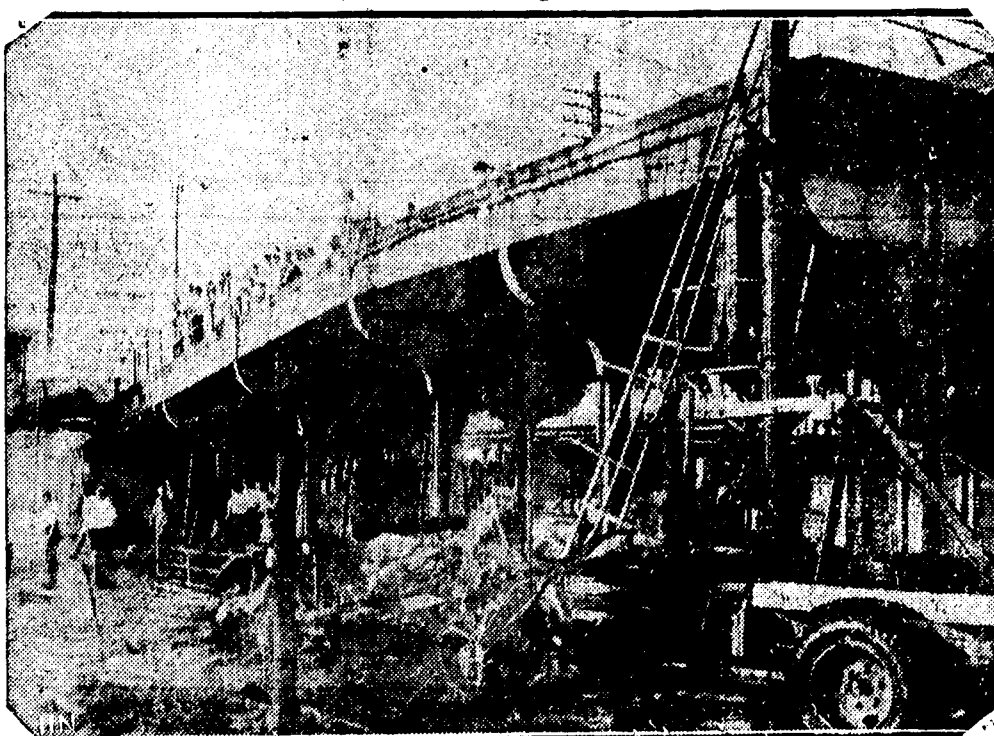

Siamese Twin Fights for Permit to Marry

Denied permission to marry in New York and New Jersey because she is a Siamese twin, red-haired Violet Hilton and her would-be bridegroom, Maurice L. Lambert, orchestra leader, have decided to launch a legal battle for a license. This photo shows Violet and Lambert in an affectionate pose at the New York City license bureau, where they were first refused a permit to wed. Looking on as a perhaps unwanted but unavoidable third party is Daisy Hilton, joined to her sister at hips.

Where 14 Died in Plunge of New York Bus

This photo shows the smoldering wreckage of the bus in which 14 persons were burned to death and 25 others were injured when the machine plunged down a 25-foot embankment at Ossining, N. Y., and burst into flames when the gasoline tank exploded. The fire ignited a lumber yard nearby.

Elliott and Wife at White House Seeks Return Match

Elliott Roosevelt, son of the president, and his wife, the former Ruth Googins, are photographed by the candid camera at the White House in Washington—the first picture taken of the couple since their marriage over a year ago. Elliott's wife met his parents for the first time recently at the Roosevelt Hyde Park home.

Count Francesco Campello, Italian boxing commissioner, is pictured in New York harbor upon his arrival from Italy. The count plans to investigate various phases of the Carnera-Baer bout and to arrange, if possible, a return match between the two fighters in some Italian city.

Shank Awaits Fate

With head drooped and seemingly in a stupor, Mark H. Shank, one-time brilliant lawyer of Akron, O., is pictured in the death house of the Tucker prison farm, Arkansas, where he is waiting execution in the electric chair on July 27 for the poison murders of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Colley and their three sons. Standing behind is A. G. Stedman, who was forced to resign as superintendent of the prison a day after this photo was taken.

Taken in Riot

Caryl F. Cockey, above, 20-year-old University of Washington coed, was among several score arrested as police raided Communist headquarters in Seattle following riots on the Seattle maritime strike front. She was released after being held in jail 24 hours and denying she was a member of the Communist party. She admitted membership in the Young Communist league.

Killer Ponders Fate

Charged with murder after confessing the brutal slaying of eight-year-old Elaine Watson, inset, Albert Ruske, above, 28-year-old unemployed mechanic, is nervously pacing his cell in a San Francisco jail, asking his jailer repeatedly, "What will they do to me?" The girl's body was found partially buried in the basement of Ruske's home.

Find Parallel of Nazi "Terror"

Quelling of the recent uprising in Germany by Chancellor Adolf Hitler with firing squads recalls the "Reign of Terror" in the French revolution of 1789. Just as the Hitler regime, pushed to the top through violent measures, then turned to wipe out a "revolt" among its chief supporters, sending them to death, Robespierre, bespectacled lawyer of southern France, back in 1789, found his own plans periled by a radical wing and conservatives, and lashed out ferociously to wipe out all opposition in his ranks with the guillotine.

Bandit's Family Goes on Stage

Sinclair Shocks Socialist Realm

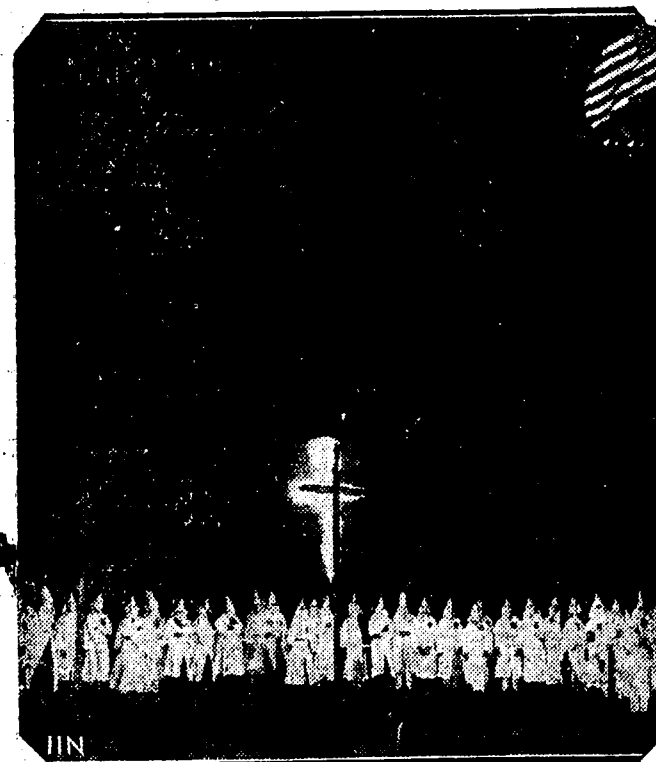

When Upton Sinclair, internationally known writer, announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for governor in the California primary, he shocked thousands of his Socialist friends and millions who had regarded him as a radical. From the time when he first attained national fame by his muckraking novel, "The Jungle", in which he exposed the horrible conditions of the Chicago stockyards, Sinclair has fought vainly for political office as a Socialist. He is being backed by Utopia, Inc., a California organization, partly secret, which favors ideas first publicized by technocracy.

Renew Fight for Mat Title

Klan Fiery Cross in Oklahoma

Amidst the glare of the fiery cross and in sight of an American flag, 350 recruits are shown being initiated into the hooded Ku Klux Klan, at its first Oklahoma rally in several years. A cordon of state officers dispatched by Governor William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray watched the conclave to enforce statutes "prohibiting all masked persons from appearing on Oklahoma roads".

MARLAND WILL HAVE MANY NEW HELPERS OKLAHOMA OFFICERS

SEVERAL MURRAY ADHERENTS AND ATTACKS DEFEATED AT POLLS

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 26. (AP)—Rep. E. W. Marland, democratic nominee for governor, will have plenty of "new brooms for the new deal" he promised Oklahoma.

Shuffling many incumbents into the discard, the voters dealt an almost completely revised legislature into office, returned only four of the state's nine democratic congressmen and generally chose Marland supporters, although Marland declined to earmark his men.

When and if Marland takes office as Oklahoma's chief executive next January, he will work with a legislature in which there will be a few holdover members from the regime of Gov. Alfalfa Bill Murray.

However, some of the bitterest Murray foes were beaten, among them Senator George Jennings of Sapulpa, while some Murray adherents were returned.

Many Changes Made. Fifteen representatives and four senators were defeated while eight house members and one senator won renomination in Tuesday's runoff primary.

The Democratic nominees, whose election is considered assured, include: Congress—Rep. Will Rogers, at large; Rep. Wesley Dismore, first district; Jack Nichols, second district; Rep. Wilbur Cartwright, third district; P. L. Gassaway, fourth district; Josh Lee, fifth district; Rep. J. Johnson, sixth district; Sam Messingale, seventh district; Phil Ferguson, eighth district.

However, in the eighth, republicans often win. The nominee is T. J. Sargent.

Other Officials Named. Lieutenant Governor—James E. Berry. Attorney General—Mac G. Williamson. Secretary of State—Frank C. Carter. State Treasurer—Hugh Harrell. State Superintendent—John Vaughan.

Board of State Clerk—Andy Payne. Labor Commissioner—W. A. Pat Murphy. Charities Commissioner—Mrs. Mable Bassett.

Board of Agriculture President—Harry Cordell. State Examiner—John Rogers. Chief Mine Inspector—Robert H. Brown.

Supreme Court Justice, third district—James I. Phelps. Supreme Court Justice, seventh district—Thomas L. Gibson. Supreme Court Justice, fourth district—N. S. Corn.

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 26. (AP)—Four heavily armed bandits robbed the Oxford bank here this morning of an estimated $5,000 cash and fled with five hostages after shooting up the town.

Marion Carson, manager of a lumber company here and paragon of the bank, and one of the bandits were wounded by vigilantes' shotgun fire as they climbed into the car. Carson, shot in the shoulder, was not believed seriously wounded. The bandit who was believed to have suffered only a minor wound. He was shot in the cheek and was bleeding profusely, witnesses said, as the car sped out of town.

Harold Jettrell, 18, was shot in the abdomen by the bandits as they raked the street with machine gun fire in their flight.

All the hostages were released a short time after the robbery. Ted Donley, assistant cashier, was the last to be released. He was thrown out unharmed 12 miles west of Arkansas City.

The robbers seized Homer Jettrell, cashier of the bank, and Daisy Bay assistant cashier, as they went to the bank in front, they seized Donley and went inside where they waited for the time lock to open the safe.

Meanwhile work spread that the robbery was in progress and vigilantes armed themselves. J. E. Campbell, patron of the bank who was taken as a hostage, had armed himself with a shotgun but was overtaken by the bandits as he approached the rear of the bank. He did not get to fire a shot.

Two of the bandits, witnesses said, remained outside the bank holding a machine gun on the street while the other two worked inside. As they left, the bandits ordered Jettrell, Miss Bay, Donley, Campbell and Marion Carson, another patron, to get into the waiting car. Then the vigilantes opened fire from a hardware store across the street.

"The bandit car, a dark blue sedan Ford V-8, bore two Oklahoma license tags, 334-664 and 254-634.

The men were all of medium size, witnesses said. They wore white shirts and light trousers. "I don't think the men were the escaped Texas convicts," said Miss Bay. "They did not talk much, but they went about it coolly with little conversation."

Car Is Identified. ARKANSAS CITY, Kas., July 26. (AP)—The car into which the Oxford bank bandits changed 12 miles west of here today was identified as a truck owned by R. Allen of Arkansas City. Allen was working when the bandits drove up and commandeered his car. They had engine trouble.

Tom Donley, one of the hostages, said he saw the car driven by the bandits at this point.

Then the vigilantes opened fire from a hardware store across the street.

"The bandit car, a dark blue sedan Ford V-8, bore two Oklahoma license tags, 334-664 and 254-634.

The men were all of medium size, witnesses said. They wore white shirts and light trousers. "I don't think the men were the escaped Texas convicts," said Miss Bay. "They did not talk much, but they went about it coolly with little conversation."

Car Is Identified. ARKANSAS CITY, Kas., July 24. (AP)—The car into which the Oxford bank bandits changed 12 miles west of here today was identified as a truck owned by R. Allen of Arkansas City. Allen was working when the bandits drove up and commandeered his car. They had engine trouble.

Tom Donley, one of the hostages, said he saw the car driven by the bandits at this point.

DOLLFUSS

 "Hello! Hello!" and then was silent.
 "The office boy, who witnessed the shooting, believed the chancellor was dead. The lad was led from the room and Dollfuss remained with those who shot him."
 "After a short time, Minister Fey (Emil Fey, former vice-chancellor), was called by the putchists.
 "The chancellor was lying on a couch, his head covered with a cloth, and Fey saw the blood-soaked first aid bandage with which he had been wrapped.
 "In a weak, determined voice, the chancellor bade Fey to take care of his wife and children."

Sketch of Dollfuss.
 "The smallest, for a time the youngest, and one of the boldest prime ministers in all Europe was Engelbert Dollfuss, chancellor of Austria in the turbulent period beginning in May 1932, when Austria was starting to sweep neighboring Germany and post-war financial and economic troubles were at a peak."

With a wide sentiment in his country, Dollfuss dedicated himself to the task of maintaining the independence of his country. A foe of both German nationalism and socialism, he preached a species of Christian nationalism, guiding himself by the precepts of the Roman Catholic church, of which he was a devout member. He was a man of the day when a common political creed would unite a people already 90 per cent dedicated to a common religious belief.

But Austria, divided into two camps by the socialists dominating in Vienna and the fascists in the country at large, seethed and boiled. On March 7, 1933, Dollfuss dissolved the parliament, the so-called "Landtag," and declared martial law. He was then elected chancellor of Austria by a vote of 99 to 1.

He raised and closed all Nazi headquarters, arrested 1,000 Nazis and forbade political meetings. He made a uniformed rank, auxiliary police. Municipal elections showed Nazi gains and he shut down on further voting.
 On September 21, 1933, there was a cabinet shake-up with Dollfuss as premier and Franz Böhner as vice premier. The government and with the minister of interior, Dollfuss, he was dubbed "dictator" by his foes, bombing broke out and on October 3 the disorders culminated in an attempt to assassinate the chancellor.

Rudolf Berthl, a one-time army bugler, fired several shots at Dollfuss at the entrance of the parliament building. One bullet hit him in the shoulder, but within a fortnight he was back at his desk.

Heard on Farm-Wins War Laurels.
 Dollfuss was born October 4, 1892, in Tengen, Lower Austria, and spent his boyhood on a farm. He studied in Vienna and economics in Berlin until the world war. He served at the front 37 months, emerging as an officer.

Afterward he became active in agricultural organizations, was secretary of the Lower Austrian Farmers' League and helped organize the Lower Austria chamber of agriculture. In 1930 he went to the executive board of the federal railways and before the year was out was named president of the lines. In March, 1931, he became minister of agriculture and in May, 1932, president of the cabinet.
 Dollfuss was a tall, thin man, 6 feet 11 inches tall, and his size was a prolific subject of jests which usually he took in good part. Once when he was introduced at a luncheon as "Europe's youngest chancellor," he chimed in with "and the smallest one of the favorite jokes about him ran: 'Austria is going to put out a new postage stamp bearing a life-size portrait of Dollfuss.'"

Enemies called him "the mildest Metetrnich," friends fondly referred to him as "our little Napoleon." In the midst of the Austrian fight to revive the old Austrian republic in opposition to union with Germany, the Burgher in Vienna produced a play eulogizing Prince Eugene, one of Austria's great military heroes, a small man, great warrior, who was not lost upon the audience.

Success in Diplomatic Field.
 But diminutive though he was in physical stature, Dollfuss measured up with others in statecraft. At the world economic conference in London in June, 1933, one observer said "he skipped to the platform like a schoolboy; then proceeded to present his country's position with complete success." At League of Nations sessions in Geneva he also scored by clear and convincing presentations of Austrian viewpoints.

One of the great triumphs in his field was scored at Rome. Using his favorite method of travel, the airplane, he flew to Italy's capital at a time when the rise of Adolf Hitler to power in Berlin had turned attention to the several points of similarity between German and Italian fascism and revived talk of a "fascist pact" across Europe that would guide Austria to evolve "ultimately in 'anchluss'."

Dollfuss, Austria's "little Napoleon," talked with Benito Mussolini, Italy's stoutly-built "modern Caesar," such good effect that he was able to announce that Italy would frown upon any change in the independent status of the republic. Thereafter "anchluss" in the political sense was off-limits so far as official Berlin was concerned.

Wife Worries About Smoking.
 Personally Dollfuss was as mild as his acts were drastic. He lived pretentiously, finding success in official cares in the middle-class atmosphere of a well-ordered home. His wife, a quiet, housewife woman, kept in the background, devoted her energies to their two children, Rudolf and Eva, and to the difficult task of keeping her husband from unnecessary strain.
 Dollfuss ate too little and smoked too much. He used to say, "His favorite dish was a cream potato soup, such as he ate on his farm as a boy. He drank coffee, water, but smoked innumerable cigarettes."

AUSTRIA

 in a strenuous effort to maintain order.
 As his first statement as chief of the cabinet, Prince Von Starheimberg said only that the government policy will be to carry on the work begun by Dollfuss.

The first act of the cabinet when it met under its new leader was to vote an authorization for "appropriate" financial measures for the future welfare of Dollfuss' widow and his two children—four-year-old Eva and four-year-old Rudolf.

Then the cabinet declared the creation of a special military court to try the offenders in yesterday's putsch when a group of Nazis declared the chancellor and killed the country's leader.

The government, it was indicated, will act sternly against the killers of its former leader, but apart from this punishment, it was indicated that one of the aims of the government was that of relationships with other countries as a result of the murder.

A report which was not immediately confirmed from the province of Carinthia declared Yugoslav soldiers had fired across the Austrian border and Austrian troops had been concentrated there as a result.

Rintelen Also Dies.
 The man who would have been chancellor after Dollfuss, Rintelen, died soon after Dollfuss. He, too, died of a bullet wound but he was in jail when death came to him. It was announced officially that he had committed suicide.

Rintelen was announced as the "new chancellor."
 Vienna appeared a city of tragedy. Large black funeral banners flew from all public buildings, from theatres and from many shops and homes. The worried faces of pedestrians clearly revealed the public tension amid the uncertainty of Austria's future.

Picardies announcing martial law were posted everywhere. The helmeted police as well as the Heimwehr were in the streets with machine guns posted at strategic corners.

In connection with the creation of the special military court to punish the men who had made the putsch it was pointed out bitterly in some quarters that although Dollfuss died less than 24 hours after the first terrorist was hanged under his anti-terrorist decree, no Nazi had yet been executed in Austria.

The man who was hanged for a bombing was a socialist. Despite the severity of his decrees, Dollfuss was known as one who hated to impose the death penalty.

VIENNA, July 26.—(AP)—Civil war broke out in Austria today as Nazis battled government forces for control of half a dozen cities in the province of Styria, following the assassination of Chancellor Dollfuss.
 Nazis were reported to be marching in increasing numbers against the combined forces of the army and the fascist Heimwehr, or home guard.

An official announcement at Graz, capital of the strong Nazi province, said 14 army men had been killed, Nazi losses were believed heavy.
 Sharp fighting raged last night and today about several towns of the province, southwest of Vienna.

Meantime rumblings of war were heard over Europe as a result of the menacing situation. A communiqué by the secretary of state of public security said: "In Vienna and the provinces, with the exception of Styria, order prevails."

The revolt in certain sections of Styria has already collapsed, thanks to the energetic action of law enforcement agencies.
 "Large detachments of troops at present are marching on Liezen, Leoben and Donauwörth to suppress all vestiges of revolt."

Private advices from Styria said Nazi troops in uniform were guarding many railway stations.
 A few hours after he had been killed, Dr. Anton Rintelen, minister to Rome and the choice of yesterday's Nazi putchers to succeed Dollfuss, was shot in his cell and died several hours later. Officials said he tried to commit suicide.

Rintelen was taken to a hospital in a critical condition. He regained consciousness long enough to scribble "an innocent." The Nazis had falsely proclaimed over the radio yesterday that he had been named chancellor.
 General Wagner of the Austrian army, a close friend and adviser of Rintelen, was arrested at Graz.

A motor tour through districts reported in the hands of the government revealed several were still held by Nazis.
 The Associated Press found Rintelen, on the Yugoslav border, which was reported at 10 a. m. to belong to the government actually to be in the control of Nazi troops.

The situation at Dattersburg is unusually important because of its location on the border. It is one of the towns divided by a peace treaty boundary and a Nazi troop should engage in heavy fighting there Yugoslavia might become involved.
 Italian troops were massed on the border, ordered by Mussolini to be ready to march on short notice.

only estimated at from 144 to 300, whose daring seizure of the chancellor yesterday resulted in Dollfuss' assassination, were held under heavy guard in a military barracks.

Their guarantee of safe conduct to Germany, made by Emil Fey, former vice chancellor and a Heimwehr leader, was revoked by the government when the little "gamecock chancellor" was found dead.

Named Acting Chancellor.
 Dr. Jurt Schuchnigg, minister of social welfare in Dollfuss' cabinet who was named acting chancellor by Miklas, indicated in his first official statement that policies of the Nazi victim would be carried out.

The Nazi conspirators, wearing Heimwehr uniforms, swooped down on the chancellor yesterday afternoon and, killing Dollfuss, held control of the building for six hours.

The compelled Fey to go to the balcony time and again to reassure the crowd outside, and order troops and police not to harm Nazis.

When night fell they arranged with Fey for safe conduct to the border.

Although he spoke guardedly, Dr. Schuchnigg expressed disapproval of the part Herr Reith, Germany's minister to Vienna, played in the hanging of the putsch.

(A dispatch to the London Daily Mail this morning said Heimwehr members and civilians attempted during the night to lynch the assassin of Dollfuss but were repulsed when police threatened to fire into the crowd.)

The Nazis' daring putsch, following by a day the hanging of a socialist in Dollfuss' campaign to suppress the putsch, began shortly before 1 p. m. and Vienna spent a wild afternoon, filled with rumors.

France Gave Veiled Warning to Nazis

PARIS, July 26.—(AP)—Premier Doumergue served a veiled warning of France's determination to safeguard "Austria's Independence" against a Nazi revolution today in a telegram of condolence for the assassination of Chancellor Dollfuss.

The French attitude was couched in messages that both Doumergue and Barthou sent Acting Chancellor Schuchnigg of Austria lauding Dollfuss for his courage in the fight to maintain Austria's independence to which "France is firmly attached."

Dollfuss' work in "defense of his fatherland's independence will survive him," said Barthou, while Doumergue echoed this statement. French officials consider the danger of a Nazi revolution lessened by what they called a wave of indignation among the Austrian public against the assassination.

French troop movements are envisaged, officials said. The outbreak of a Nazi revolution foreign circles here said, would be a signal for overtures to England, Italy and the Little Entente to determine what joint action could be taken.

France, however, has no desire to conduct any lone adventure with Austria and is eagerly watching London's attitude.

Dollfuss Failed On Same Method Hitler

(By The Associated Press)
 Engelbert Dollfuss failed in what his bitter enemy, Adolf Hitler, thus far has succeeded in doing—ruling by iron force.

After Hitler had ruthlessly suppressed a revolt June 30, Dollfuss said: "Does not the light at last dawn upon us that one can not make a people happy with violent methods?"

Within three weeks he was to launch a rigid campaign against his foes—a campaign that had its boom-rang in his death.

Hitler and Dollfuss were fellow-countrymen. They flashed into the same time. Hitler was born in Austria in 1889, Dollfuss in 1892. Both were of the lower classes.

After the war in which they fought for the same cause Hitler dedicated himself to a united Germany. Dollfuss gave his life in opposition to an "anchluss," or union of Austria and Germany.

End of Nazism Forecast.
 WASHINGTON, July 26.—(AP)—The end of the Nazi movement in Austria as a result of the assassination of Chancellor Dollfuss was forecast today by Edgar L.

A Word From BRUCE E. GILLEAN

Candidate for COUNTY CLERK
 Navarro County

To the Voters of Navarro County:

I am forty-five years of age, married and was born and reared in Navarro County and have lived the greater portion of the last ten years in Corsicana. I have never sought a public office before. One of my opponents, the present County Clerk, has served as chief deputy in that office for four years and is now serving the fourth year as County Clerk and is a candidate for the third term. I am an ex-student of the A. and M. College, have had varied experience in the commercial world and am well qualified in every respect to make the County a very efficient County Clerk. I have always been a democrat and believe in Democratic principles and the rotation of office. There has not been a man elected to a third term for County Clerk of Navarro County in over fifty years and if I am elected I will be satisfied with two terms.

 worked hard in Chicago to enact the past six years for people all over Texas and have had a hand in nearly all major legislation enacted during that time. Texas has been cut put aside prejudices and vote for ability."

Attorney General James V. Allred, speaking at Cuero, said: "Ever since I took up a close study of the subject, I have advocated progressive changes in the criminal procedure of our state courts," he said. "The voters should lend their support only to those legislative candidates who will pledge themselves to work for reforms that will make justice swifter, surer and less costly."

Hunter Has New Plan.
 Tom Hunter put a new plank in his platform, at Georgetown. He advocated a state-wide program of power development of streams and said if elected governor he would champion large grants from the federal government to provide cheap electric power in Texas at one-sixth to one-tenth the charges now collected by public utility concerns.

There is no reason why there should be a series of dams on the Trinity, Brazos, Colorado, Guadalupe, Pecos, Concho and other rivers, some of them supplying energy for development, of the power for the development of the state.

C. C. McDonald's speech at Baytown was accepted by the business which New Orleans, Texas coast. He planned to carry his campaign to Dallas tonight.

William McCraw, candidate for attorney general, likewise ran into the power of the Texas coast. He planned to carry his campaign to Dallas tonight.

Clyde Smith was at Port Arthur and Walter Woodward stumped at Deatur, Bowie and Wichita Falls in the campaign for that office.

Joseph W. Bailey, candidate for United States senator, also experienced unfavorable weather in San Antonio, while Senator Tom Connally whom he hopes to defeat, was in Cleburne and Fort Worth.

NELSON

 Nelson, John Hamilton and Homer Van Meter, other members of the "gang," are captured.
 Nelson is "killing crazy" Hoover said, adding that he will shoot without provocation, whereas his late chief held his gun until he was cornered. Nelson was last reported in Ohio and Michigan.

And while the hunt for Nelson was being conducted, the public still puzzled over the question as to who, if anyone, "put the finger" on Dillinger.

The Chicago police theorized that it might have been Mrs. Anna Sage, a woman who was with Mrs. Roy Keefe accompanied Dillinger to the Biograph theater the night he was slain. Their theory was that she might have told on Dillinger in an effort to save herself from being deported to Rumania.

Federal officials denied this.

G. Prochnik, the Austrian minister, upon his return to Washington.

The minister was on his vacation at Rehoboth Beach, Delaware, and returned to his post after the assassination of Dollfuss.

Mussolini to Attend Funeral.
 VIENNA, July 26.—(AP)—It was understood today that Premier Mussolini of Italy is expected to come here to attend the funeral for the assassinated Chancellor Dollfuss Saturday.

Deny Italian Invasion.
 VIENNA, July 26.—(AP)—Rumors circulating abroad that Italian troops had crossed the Austrian border were emphatically denied today by the Austrian foreign office as being "absolutely unfounded."

Claim Border Firing.
 VIENNA, July 26.—(AP)—An unverified report from the province of Carinthia stated that Yugoslav soldiers had fired across the Austrian border, causing a concentration of Austrian troops in that region.

Hitler at Frontier.
 LONDON, July 26.—(AP)—A dispatch from an Exchange Telegraph correspondent stated it had been reported without confirmation that Chancellor Hitler arrived on the German side of the Austrian frontier this afternoon and visited an Austrian Legion campment.

George Washington refused to hold office longer than two terms saying it was not best for the people in a Democratic form of government.

Two terms is as long as I ask for, why not rotate this office. Ellis County has not had a Congressman in forty years, why not. Because Dallas has always had more votes. It's fair to rotate this office so that every County in the District may have the honor of having a native son represent them, in Washington. Vote for an Ellis County Man now, and four years from now Ellis County will help your county elect a Congressman.

BACKGROUND

 picious neighbors began erecting tariff walls.
 And in the midst sat the once proud capital, a head without a body. The old empire, despite the facts, had provided free trade and a market for Vienna's manufactures. Now the hinterland was inadequate to absorb her products or to feed her population of nearly 2,000,000.

Economic Rot.
 Economic rot set in. Austria, like some noble deposed to penury, began living on an international dole, on loans from the League of Nations or creditor lands.

The depression—rocking the economic structure of the world—reduced Austria to a minor role. The collapse of the Kreditanstalt, great bank of Vienna, sent a shudder through Europe and beyond.

Misery begat political strife. For a while after the war, socialists controlled Austria. But the folk of the countryside, with Catholic Christian Socialist leanings would have none of them. The Marxists soon had to be content with Vienna.

There were built the famous workers' apartments, which Chancellor Dollfuss' artillery pounded when he crusaded the socialist organization in blood a few months ago.

Dollfuss, head of the Christian Social government, assumed more and more dictatorial powers as the Austrian Nazi movement, gaining vigor with Hitler's rise in Germany, strove to unseat the "vest pocket" chancellor.

The Nazis, like countless pan-cake in both the reich and Austria, have dreamed of uniting the two nations.

It was estimated that the wind raged with velocity of 60 miles an hour. It had subsided to a breeze today. Between Victoria and Port Lavaca countless windmills were overturned, fruit was stripped from trees, grain crops were flat on the ground and many buildings were roofless or in ruins.

There was a difference of opinion as to whether the storm had damaged the cotton crop. Prevailing drought and blighted the cotton and growers expected as much as a small fraction of the amount normally raised in this section. Some were hopeful, however, that the rain which drenched their fields would improve the crop. Others feared that the hard wind and rain had finished the destruction.

Three oil derricks were blown over in the Collette creek oil field five miles southwest of Victoria.
